"Sex" (aŭ "Seks") Sex is the biological phenomenon of reproductive intercourse between the male and female genders. Additionally, the term "sexuality" is used to denote the manifestation of physical, emotional and cognitive tendencies toward this activity, which in turn are influenced by internal or external factors. Sexuality in an individual is typically seen as a continuum, in that people of any sex may have sexual responses and preferences that vary from extremely active to extremely inactive, and also that people may be described as being predominantly heterosexual, bisexual, homosexual, or asexual.
